Advantages of Mocoat Polyethylene Tanks:

- Superior chemical resistance. Won't corrode and is compatible with a broad range of chemical applications.
- Does not dent, scratch or rust like steel. This translates into reduced maintenance costs.
- Superior impact resistance. Less risk of chemical spill accidents.
- One piece seamless construction. Seamed tanks (like steel or fiberglass) can be potential leak areas. Polyethylene tanks have no seams resulting in less risk of a tank leaking.
- Better weatherability (UV stabilizers standard). Holds up well under extreme weather conditions.
- Light weight design. Easier to move around. More economical to transport and install than steel or fiberglass.
